Experience Scripps Health as a Student

Scripps' commitment to ongoing learning and health care excellence extends beyond our organization. Our student rotations and high school internship programs help promote health care careers to a new generation, shape the future workforce an develop future leaders in our community.

Student Rotations
Affiliation agreements with each school and program are required for student participation.

Requests for nursing and allied health rotations are placed by the school through the San Diego Nursing and Allied Health Service-Education Consortium. Placements are not confirmed until the request is approved through the consortium.

High School internships
Scripps partners with only a few high schools to offer specialized programs for their students. Please check with your school for more information on partnerships. These programs create workplace exposure and learning opportunities for students who have an interest in health care; they integrate health care applications into traditional high school courses.

High School Exploration Program: This 5-week summer program, in partnership with the Health and Science Pipeline Initiative, and Young Leaders in Health Care, places students in a support or administrative setting. Participants must attend a HASPI participating school or be a member of Young Leaders in Health Care at their school and must complete the application procedure through these groups.

Volunteers
Volunteers must be active men and women age 15 and older who are willing to make a commitment to volunteering at least three to four hours a week. Scripps volunteers include students, homemakers, part-time workers, retired persons and seniors. Volunteers may have unique opportunities to work in the emergency department, intensive care unit, or surgery. See the Volunteer page for more information about training and requirements.
